

What to expect during Open Day on Bowen Street

Bowen street is where a lot of the event for Open Day happen. You can expect very large crowds and people walking in all directions. There are lots of marquees outdoors, so you will be exposed to the weather as you navigate the area.

Figure 1. Crowds on Bowen Street

There is also a central stage with live performances and loudspeakers. The environment will be loud. The performances sometimes stop and then resume after a few minutes. The stage has bright lights.

Figure 2. Main stage on Bowen Street

Figure 3. Close up of the main stage

Bowen Street also acts as a hub for RMIT buildings. As you walk North down the street, you'll see buildings with even numbers to your left, and buildings with odd numbers on your right.

Figure 4. Buildings 2, 4, and 6 on the left side of Bowen Street

During Open Day, you may also see walking performances.

Figure 5. Performers on Bowen Street

You might be invited to participate. You don't have to participate in the walking performances; only do it if you are comfortable with it.

Figure 6. Open Day attendees participating on a performance

Finally, you will see many friendly Open Day Volunteers. If you are not sure which way to go, they can help you navigate the campus. You can recognise them because they will have an RMIT lanyard, and volunteer badge. Some will have a high visibility vest. Some may have an RMIT beanie. Some may have a Hidden Disabilities lanyard, others may wear a Pride lanyard.

Figure 7. Open Day volunteer